A man has been out fishing by the lake all-day...
... and hasn't caught anything.

He decided to just give up and call it a day, but on his way he notices a young boy fishing few feet away from him.

The man immediately notices the kid has several buckets full of fish, then witnesses him reeling in yet another one.

Excuse me, the man says, "I've never been able to catch much of anything around here. I've got to ask, what your secret?"

The boy pauses for a moment, then mumbles "hmmm mmmph mmm mmph hmm".

"I'm sorry, could you say that again?"

The kid repeats, a little louder this time, "hmmm mmmph mmm mmph hmm"

Finally, the kid spits something into his hand, and yells, "You gotta keep your worms warm!"

Hunters Encouraged to Have Deer Tested for CWD

The North Dakota Game and Fish Department will continue its Hunter-Harvested Surveillance program during the 2022 hunting season by sampling deer for chronic wasting disease from select units in the western portion of the state, and unit 2B in the east.

Samples will be tested from deer taken from units 1, 2B, 3A1, 3A2, 3A3, 3A4, 3B1, 3B2, 3C, 3D1, 3D2, 3E1, 3E2, 3F1, 3F2, 4A, 4B, 4C, 4D, 4E and 4F.

CWD is a slow-moving brain disease of deer, moose and elk that can cause population-level impacts under high infection rates.

Hunters are encouraged to drop off heads of adult or yearling deer at collection locations. Fawns and head-shot deer cannot be tested. Hunters wishing to keep the heads can bring them to a Game and Fish district office during business hours to have them sampled.

Self-sampling kits are available for hunters who wish to have their deer tested but are unable to drop the head at a collection site. The do-it-yourself kit allows hunters to remove the lymph nodes and ship them to the Department's wildlife health lab for testing.

Results can be expected within four weeks and will be sent to your Game and Fish My Account inbox.

Hunters should note whole carcasses or heads of deer taken from units 3A1, 3A2, 3B1, 3C, 3D1, 3E2, 3F2, 4B and 4C may not be transported to a collection site outside of the unit. Exceptions: lymph nodes extracted from the head for the purpose of CWD testing contained in a sealed, plastic bag; and hunters can transport whole deer carcasses between adjoining CWD carcass restricted units.

For the snowbirds

- Have your mail held and stop newspaper deliveries. The post office can hold your mail until you return or you can forward it to your winter location.
- Secure windows and doors. Help keep your home untouched by installing secure locks on all windows and doors.
- Lighting. Make sure there are bright outdoor lights and time them to turn on at sundown. Set lights on random timers throughout the house to give the appearance someone is home at night.
- Create a home inventory. A home inventory can simplify filing an insurance claim if a burglary or accident does happen while you are away.
- Don't advertise your travels. Don't mention your absence on social media and wait until you return to post those travel pictures.
- Unplug unnecessary appliances. Unplugging TVs, coffee makers and small appliances helps protect against electrical fires or power surges.
- Hide the "hide-a-way" key and disable remote key entries. You won't be needing them while you are away.
- Enlist the neighbors. Ask a trusted neighbor to monitor your property while you're away and to inform you about suspicious activity, collect any flyers that are left on your door and possibly park their car in your driveway periodically.
- Snow removal. Hire a snow removal service to take care of your sidewalk and driveway.
- DIY home security or alarm services. Some apps connect to your home security system and alert you of changes. Others connect your mobile phone with a security camera or webcam to provide remote surveillance.
- Consider shutting off water at the main water valve. Turn water off at the water meter so the water pressure is turned off in the whole house. After turning off the main water valve, flush a toilet or open a faucet to evacuate some of the water from the interior pipes. Also, turn off the water to washing machines and dishwashers to avoid them leaking, and ensure your garden hose is detached.

Problems that start small in an unattended home can get serious if they're not addressed. You can ward them off with a little preparation.

- Prevent Frozen Pipes. Add extra insulation around pipes located in the attic, basement or crawlspace and keep the thermostat set at 55 degrees Fahrenheit or above. Also, change the battery in the thermostat. Some thermostats offer remote control so you can check and change your home's temperature while you're away. Install a whole house water leak detection system that will alert you in the event of a leak. You can then schedule service from afar. This helpful guide has more tips for preventing frozen pipes and water damage in your home.
- Clean gutters and trim trees. Cut down any dead limbs or trees near your house that could fall under heavy snow or ice. Clean all gutters to help drain away ice melt, possibly preventing water from building up and causing ice dams on your roof.
- Prevent Pests. Throw out any food not in an airtight metal or glass container. Then empty, clean and defrost your refrigerator and freezer. Also inspect your home's foundation, inside and out, and seal any openings.
